

Switch to direct deposit to avoid pay delays

The safe and easy way to get paid during COVID-19 or any time

The pandemic has caused delivery services to be late and unreliable. Switching to direct deposit ensures that your paycheck is on time every time and accessible when you need it.

There is more security and control with direct deposit than with cashing a check, plus you'll save time and often have access to your funds earlier. And during a health crisis, direct deposit is the best solution for contact-less delivery.

During times when many employees are working from home, be assured that you will have timely access to your pay without having to pick up a paper check in person or wait for it to be delivered.

Benefits of Direct Deposit for Employees

- No lost, stolen, or misplaced checks
- Better security than with printing and mailing checks
- No time spent at the bank or ATM
- Access to funds earlier than with paper checks
- Receive payments even when you are sick or out of town
- Wages can be deposited to a payroll card account or to a prepaid card account
- Your financial institution may waive monthly maintenance charges or other fees if you use direct deposit
- Benefit checks, pension payments, and investment income can all be paid via direct deposit

Whether it's during a health crisis or business as usual, direct deposit can save time and ease your mind about getting access to your wages.

And with direct deposit, you can enroll in our Employee Self-Service, which gives you online access to pay stubs, W-2s, profile information, and more.
